ABOUT JOHN CONNELL

- John Connell has served for the past 12 years as an operational executive with an array of technology organizations. Throughout that time, he's managed sales, marketing, customer success and product management across the technology industries of critical document and compliance management, relational databases, CMS, financial processing, and his current venture in mortgage finance technology.
- John brings his passion for applying intuitive solutions to complex problems to the benefit of internal and external partners. Most notably was the genesis of compliance management for government agencies and healthcare facilities, which has raised the quality of service for over 300 organizations across the US.
- In his current role, John is applying his problem-solving skills to cultivate calm from the chaos of the mortgage finance technology market. By enlisting integrated technology solutions and strong partner relationships, typically challenging aspects of mortgage finance, like reverse mortgages and attorney signings, are being improved and friction is reduced – making for a better borrower experience.
